Dedication

In November 1985, Frank Langheinrich began his career at Rowland Hall-St. Marks volunteering as a substitute teacher. He signed his first contract with the school in 1989, becoming a part-time computer science teacher and the assistant debate coach. Since then, he has become a full-time teacher of photography, history, economics, computer programming, and computer art, the assistant coach of winning baseball teams, and the coach of sensational debaters. As a Junior Class Sponsor, he enthusiastically and successfully assists with the lobster sales, and the Junior/Senior Prom. He is an active and caring parent of Mark '97, and two graduates, Jennifer '89 and Eric '92. Over the years, Mr. Langheinrich has expressed a genuine concern for the students and a true dedication to the school. On behalf of the student body, we thank you, Mr. Langheinrich, for all you do.

The Yearbook staff had another successful year under the leadership of advisor Angela Russell-Gibbons and editors Patrick Gibbons and Jeanna Nixon. The staff included Hilary Amoss, Carrie Littlefield, Hadley Rampton, Libby Ramsey, Kristina Reeder, Mary Sarver, Geeta Shah, Richelle Skaggs, Wendy Stansbury-James, Kendall Sumner, Jenny Williams, Megan Williams, and Jenny Wood. Dave Hall and senior Sarah Selznick supplied some quality photographs.

Literary Magazine

Creative Juices Flow Freely

This year, as in years past, Mrs. Kranes was the advisor for the school's literary magazine, Mosaic. The 1991-92 Mosaic was a medalist in the Columbia Scholastic Press Contest and is now in contention for the Gold Crown. It was also named All-American by the National Scholastic Press. Mrs. Kranes says the Mosaic, "has gotten better and better each year."

From September through mid-February the magazine staff worked in what is equivalent to a creative writing class; writing everything from poetry to one act plays, from stories to monologues and essays. Then, from mid-February through May, the entire staff edited, and designed the magazine. This year's staff included editor Molly Billings, assistant editor Adrienne McConnell, art editor Asa Osaka, as well as Serene Begum, Colin Bielen, Dylan Brunjes, Jeanette Carpenter, Aly Farbman, Stefan Folias, Jamie Gibbs, Genny Jacobsen, Melinda Montgomery, Wendy Stansbury, Nate Thomas, and Dan Urmann. Molly Billings is "expecting a very good literary magazine this year."

Stressed-out Seniors Find Relief

This year the senior class climbed on a bus for a journey to Ogden for their class retreat. The seniors played basketball, football, and had the Larimer Olympics. Most students found the basketball more relieving than the seminars so they played basketball instead. The seniors all sat around a fire and sang and told stories until midnight when they were forced into their cabins to go to sleep. A great class bonding was experienced by all.

The Junior Class Goes Touchy Feely

The Junior Class Retreat was held at Camp Pinecliff near Coalville, Utah. The day included various outdoor activities, such as a partner ropes course, games which simulated acid pits and one exercise involving a styrofoam dummy named Bob. Each event stressed imagination, intellect, as well as patience, and persistence. The retreat emphasized the importance of team work, cooperation, and communication. When asked about the Junior Class Retreat one participant replied, "the retreat was a wonderful experience. Not only was it entertaining, but it also taught me useful skills I can apply to the future."

Sophomores Learn the Ropes

"I'm choosing to trust you," was what each sophomore found him or herself saying before falling backwards off a large rock depending only on the arms of classmates to catch him or her. This was one of the unique trust building activities the sophomores participated in on Friday and Saturday at Camp Tuttle. Using each other to achieve goals, the sophomores saw a different side of one another. Everyone agrees that it was a "bonding" experience. The grand highlight, to finish off the retreat was climbing a 14 foot flat wall.

Freshmen Find Nature

The trip the Freshmen took in the fall was a biology trip and retreat one. The students were split into four groups and went to four different places around Utah. The camp locations were Horseshoe, Uintas, and Upper and Lower Stansbury Mtns. As far as the students were concerned the trip consisted of more fun than of learning. They made a terrestrial analysis and aquatic analysis of their immediate surroundings. They also took hikes, had fun cooking their own meals and got to know each other better. The students had done extensive studies on a mammal that lives or lived in Utah to prepare them selves for the trip. All the preparations paid off. So despite all the ghost stories, dirty jokes, long campfires, nights in each others tents and burnt food the students did learn something.

LOCKED-IN

On September 25, the entire Middle School embarked on an adventure that wouldn't end until September 26. They left for Liberty Park on Friday for what was supposed to be an afternoon of games and fun. When they returned from the park, everything was arranged for a lock-in at the school. For 14 hours, 132 twelve and thirteen year-olds roamed the halls playing basketball, watching movies, and eating junk food.

Happy Holidays at RHSM

With a new Headmaster and a new chaplain, one of Rowland Hall-St. Marks' oldest traditions went on for the 112th time. The middle school bell choir, Laura Chummers, the upper school chorus, Geeta Shah, and Sarah Gibbs performed during the service. Beautiful sounds filled the chapel throughout the evening. Chaplains Raggs Ragan and Jonathan Vorhees led the service that was memorable and enjoyable to students, faculty, family and alumnus.

Debate

Policy Pros

This year, the 1992-1993 Rowland Hall-St. Mark's Debate Team was led by Coach Frank Langheinrich and Assistant Coach Soudie Tahmassebpour. Debate at RHSM is subdivided into three major categories. These are policy (two-person team), Lincoln-Douglas, and individual competition including: student congress, impromptu speaking, extemporaneous speaking, and oratory. The team this year was younger and more inexperienced than any other RHSM team in recent history, with only four returning seniors. Nevertheless the results were impressive. Team captains were Jonathan Pappasideris and Emily Wood for policy; Alex Ashton for Lincoln-Douglas, Bram Dolcourt and Ben Kesner for individual events; and Osanna Avanesova and Sarah Selznick for student congress. Other members of the team included: Ali Akhavan, Matt Allred, Avid Amiri, Elliot Anderson, Dan Conner, David Cook, John Dahl, Sarah Francis, Andrew Gelman, Nick Greenwood, Andy Hatch, Erica Howe, Andrew Howell, Sage Lazar, Dag Leonard, Vanessa Lowe, Emily Michael, Keith Nielsen, Sarah Patrick, Brady Rasmussen, Ryland Sumner, Josh Taylor, Nate Taylor, and Jenny Williams. All in all, the debate team had a successful year developing their skills and winning many trophies and awards.

National Honor Society

The Few, The Proud, The Smart Kids

This year the National Honor Society was led by Tony Larimer and included Molly Billings, Sydney Brown, Richard Chang, Laura Chummers, Neir Jhavar, Jonathan Judge, Amanda Kobler, Anne Leppert, Patrick Lin, Christy Meade, Jeni Nakao, Jeanna Nixon, Sarah Patrick, Hadley Rampton, Dylan Rothwell, Heather Seybolt, Nathan Taylor, and Jenny Williams. These students were chosen from the high school student body based on their grade point averages. Their main activity was tutoring other RHSM students.

This year the peer counselor's consisted of sophomores Adria Muir and Emily Wood, and Juniors Matt Alred, Beth Davis, Anna Gabb, Genny Jacobson, Brian Methner, Emily Michael, Macey Mott, and Dave Reeder. Their goal this year was to become more visible and active in the high school by sponsoring lectures on issues such as eating disorders and depression and launching Red Ribbon Week and Safe and Sober campaigns. As in other years, the peer counselors befriended and acted as role models for their middle schoolers advisees.

Tony's Bar and Grill Opens

During the summer of 1992, RHSM's theater underwent major cosmetic surgery - plus some internal tuning-up. New seats, with cushions, were installed; everything was painted; an orchestra pit and thrust stage were added. With all of these physical changes, a name change was in order.

The former auditorium located at the north end of the school was transformed into a beautiful performance space and renamed "The Larimer Center for the Performing Arts." Through a generous donation from the R. Harold Burton Foundation, RHSM gained a classroom, a faculty office, a dark-room, a dance room, in addition to a gorgeous performing arts facility.

The first things most people notice is the new paint accentuating the proscenium and the green chairs with cushions. The behind the scenes improvements include a completely new sound system and a programmable light board. In addition, the dressing rooms are now equipped with running water, which is a great relief to the actors.

A Grand Opening Ceremony was held October 15, 1992. The ceremony featured a talk by director Kenneth Washington, outstanding performances by a variety of students, and a chance to see Tony Larimer at a loss for words...all of which were remarkable.

Dance Company

This year's Dance Company consisted of seventeen dancers. They were Osanna Avanesova, Anna Barnes, Marle Bramble, Shannon Burke, Megan Cassity, Catherine Clarke, Tacy Conard, Amanda Parker-Ford, Larissa Jester, Ellen Ko, Katherine Marlow, Adria Muir, Kathleen Tundermann, Elyse Vaccaro, Michel Williams, Emily Wood. In addition to the regular, exciting work with Joan Kingston the Dance Company had the opportunity to work with the reknowned choreographer, Ford Evans.

To Be or Not to Be . . .

This year RHSM enjoyed three trimesters of drama. During the first trimester, students performed the musical Godspell. Director Stacey Reikhof double-cast the role of Jesus and split up the lines. What was most remarkable was that she chose to use a male and female actor to portray Jesus. Ryan Boehme and Laura Chummers played Jesus. Middle-schoolers once again joined with the Upper School in presenting this interesting look at stories from the bible. One of the highlights of the performance was Beth Davis' red-boarded rendition of Turn Back O' Man.

During the winter trimester, students performed in four different one-act plays. Tony Larimer directed Ryan Boehme and Sam McConnell in Trout. Erica Howe directed the dark-comedy No Exit. Angela Russell-Gibbons directed Half-Time at Halcyon Days - a funny look at four women finding themselves at a health spa and Present Tense - another comedy.

The spring trimester saw the return of Shakespeare to RHSM. Russell-Gibbons directed Taming of the Shrew. Nayi Mitchell played the title character, and new-comer to the stage Elliot Anderson played Petruchio, the tamer. Rehearsals were a constant moan over the way in which women were treated.

New this year was a full-time stage crew to build sets and hang lights for the Larimer Center guided by Rick McClure.

The Struggle Continues...

Once again students were exposed to new ideas when community leaders from the state came to RHSM and presented topics such as the Pro-Choice-Pro-Life debate, Gay-Lesbian Rights, Native American Rights, Homelessness, Rights of Aids patients, Antisemitism issues, and the Israeli-Palestine conflict. Keynote speaker, William Watkins, from the Education Department at the University of Utah, spoke on the life and accomplishments of Malcolm X. Liz Paige, with the help of a student-staff Human Rights Day Committee, organized the annual event to broaden the minds of the students and staff of the RHSM community.

A Sport Where You Can Use Your Head

This year the soccer teams got off to a very strong start. The girls team hoped to an eighth consecutive state championship. The boys team also hoped for an almost repeat of last season when they went undefeated in the league. This year a first at state would be great.

Many fans turned out for the home games played on the back field to support the teams.

Track

"Runners, take your marks!"

This year 50 Rowland Hall-St. Mark's students responded to the urge to run faster, jump higher, and throw farther, and joined the track team. The team competed against schools in the 1A, 2A, and 3A divisions. Training, which included lots of running and sprinting and weightlifting, started immediately following Spring Break. The team competed in all track events except for pole vaulting, including relays, sprints, shot put, discus throw, javelin, long jump, and high jump. Coach Gaylynn Mooney said at the beginning of the season, "It's going to be a great year. I'm excited about the number of people who are interested in participating. They are all very high energy people, and that is a big benefit in this sport."

"There was a strong feeling of unity between the varsity, junior varsity, and freshman-sophomore teams this year. That was a lot more beneficial than having one outstanding player, like in the past," was Sally Mason's comment when asked what she thought of this year's volleyball teams. The desire to win and the excellent guidance of Laurie Carpenter, athletic director Kendra Tomsic, and assistant coach Noni Dalton, the team had a successful season. The varsity team consisted of captains Sydney Brown and Tama Selekof, Molly Billings, Kathleen Easton, Janell James, Anne Leppert, Sally Mason, Christy Meade, Angie Migliaccio, Melinda Montgomery, and Jeni Nakao. junior varsity had players from both the varsity team and freshmen/sophomore team as well as Alexandra Folias, Alison Manka, Maggie Moore, Megan Williams and Allison Miller. When asked what he thought about the eight new team members, Eric Oehlerich '94 said, "I think we have a better team this year." New member, Heather Olson said she thought, "if everyone is willing to work hard and stay on focus, we'll be very successful.."

Boys Playing Round Ball

Once again the boys of RHSM pounded the hardwoods trying to get the round ball down the court and into the basket. This year's basketball team showed a lot of improvement throughout the year. A relatively young team, they were ranked first in the region by the Salt Lake Tribune. Top scorers for the team were Chris Alexis, Adrian Larsen, and Ryland Sumner. Tom Kuhnel was named to the All-Star team. This year, as always, the team travelled all over the state to meet their competitors. Coaches Danny Shwam, Willy Ambos, and Bob Henderson spent many early mornings and late evenings running the young men ragged. Sure, it sounds glamorous, but it wasn't all fun and games.

Lions Hit the Boards

The '92 Girls Basketball team-worked very hard during the season and obviously it paid off. Playing for the varsity team were: Selekof, Brown, Montgomery, Leppert, Meade, Chamberlain, Ipson, Miller, Williams, Folias. Coaching the teams were Laurie Carpenter, Lori Dall, and Tracy Parkinson. These three women drilled their players day and night to help the game. In the end, it all came down to the players putting what they'd learned to work on the court.

The team enjoyed a successful regular season with a winning record of 6-2. They were also the WAC League Tournament champions, beating ICS and Waterford to win the trophy. Bubba Langheinrich was named MVP and Adam Nelson was named MIP. "This was the most thrilling coaching experience of my life," exclaimed Coach Etheridge.

Hey, Anne, are you cold?

Hey, did you see that?

It's an Educational Experience - Really!

Once again Friday afternoons found the halls of RHSM empty, and the slopes of Solitude and Brighton packed with students and faculty eager to be in the sun and snow. Organized by Dave Hall, Winter Sports found its way back into our lives. The season was delayed a week, when winter sports was cancelled for the first time in a long time due to snow. When the schedule resumed, students participated in skiing (downhill, telemark, and cross-country), snowboarding, yoga, dancing, bowling and tennis.

Game, Set, and Match

This year's boy's tennis team got off to a late start because of the unpredictable spring weather. Once underway, the boys had a solid showing. RHSM had a number of returning lettermen to make for a very strong team. Unfortunately, the team was plagued with injuries at the beginning of the season. Adrian Larson was out with knee problems, and Bob Lonergan was benched with a wrist injury.

From Fish to Fiction

This January RHSM spent two school days learning about art. Artstart, a faculty developed program, brought in professionals from different art fields including dance, drama, painting, ceramics, photography, and writing, and invited students to work directly with the professionals in a field interesting to the students. End products included brightly painted fish, short stories, poems, a mural, banners, and many interesting performances.

Life is like a ten-speed bike-- Most of us have gears we never use

Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself.

They come through you but not from you. And though they are with you, yet they belong not to you.

You may give them your love but not your thoughts.

For they have their own thoughts.

You may house their bodies but not their souls,

For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams.

Mr. Larimer-

well, I guess I can finally call you Tony but I think that Mr. Larimer sounds better so I will stick with that. Then again, there is always uncle Hottie. There have been many fun and fond memories over the years. I'm really glad we had you as an advisor the past couple of years. I know that "I'm your favorite" but we won't tell the other people that because they will be too jealous. well, I have to go now but I'm going make visits every so often to see if you are catching up in scrabble.

Sir,

I didn't think I should begin with 'Mr Larimer' as the other's did, because I wanted to be original. You, as always, since I have known you, have been a source of inspiration for everything that I have put my mind to doing. Thank you for everything you have given me.
I will visit every once in a while,
so have a fun filled life, and keep our spirit (our groups spirit) alive for us at Rowland Hall. I will not mention the episode in the Larimer Center about Mr Pucky man, and I will try to make you proud of me.

When we have our reunions, you can come because you should and can be there.

Thank you Love Alex.

Alexander Gobb.

(The famous signature that will be world renowned.)

Mr. Larimer,

the best Margaritas, that's for sure! This among other things, graduation, parties, etc., have come to symbolize our new journey (kind of over used, but oh well). I have looked up to you for a long time now and will probably continue to (considering I probably will not grow much more) Just kidding. I could open up a thesaurus to wonderful, caring, and a variety of other adjectives and remember you.

"Envoled in your light
I have discovered a key to many doors"
See you down the road,
1993
